We offer training in both the capital city Hanoi, and Ho Chi Minh City (formerly known as Saigon). Both cities are big – approx 10 million people – where they differ significantly is climate. Hanoi is right in the north of Vietnam, and has seasons. It's colder than Ho Chi Minh in the south, in winter you will need a coat! Ho Chi Minh is nestled in the south, and has a hotter, humid climate, with little change throughout the year. They are both modern, up and coming, vibrant cities with so much to see and do. There's a buzz about town, when you get there you'll see why it's becoming the most popular tourist destination in south east Asia.

Vietnam is rich in nature, countryside, and stunning landscapes. Outside of the cities you'll also find paradisaical beaches and hundreds of beautiful islands. A weekend trip could consist of jungle trekking, or island hopping! With your plentiful salary, you'll be able to do both. With careful planning you could spend every weekend in a different setting.

Buddhism is also the country's main religion. Meaning there are stunning temples throughout the land, Buddhas situated everywhere, and the good karma vibe.

Vietnam is right in the heart of Asia, bordered by Laos, Cambodia, China and a short hop from Thailand, inter-Asia flights and travel are cheap. You'll be the envy of everyone back home with your travel.
